REPUBLICANS HOLD ROUSING MEETING IN THIS CITY

Delegations Present From San Bruno, Colma, Vista Grande, Crocker Tract and Redwood City.

The first republican rally of the present political campaign was held at Metropolitan Hall in this city last night. The hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience. Besides local citizens, delegations of republicans were present from San Bruno, Colma, Vista Grande, Crocker Tract and Redwood City.

The meeting was called to order by W. J. Martin, who had been selected by the republican county committee to act as chairman. He announced that "this is a republican meeting, but that he did not intend to make a political speech. He had spoken for the last six months and would speak during the next six on the subject of Panama-Pacific Exposition site. He predicted the location of the exposition in this city. New Orleans has boasted that it will win the exposition through the influence of the democratic solid South. It is the duty of all loyal citizens of California to vote for the republican ticket in this state from governor to constable, because through the influence of that party the exposition would be won for San Francisco."

Kenneth M. Green, nominee for district attorney, was introduced as the first speaker of the evening. He said the primaries were over and the people had made their fight there. Democrats are saying that he is too young for the office of district attorney, but at the same time they were shouting for Theodore Bell who was only 21 when he was first elected district attorney for Napa county. He had experience in several courts in San Francisco and believed he was capable of performing the duties of district attorney of this county.

Judge A. McSweeney, nominee for county tax collector, was introduced. He hoped his constituents would treat him as kindly on the 8th day of November as they did on the 16th of August.

Harvey D. Loveland, nominee for railroad commissioner for the second district, followed next. He recounted the work that the commission had done since he had been a member. He said no legislature had voted money for the use of the commission in making proper investigations of railroads.

Henry Ward Brown, nominee for the assembly, was the next speaker. He showed the difference between platforms adopted twenty years ago by the republican party and those of today. Elect a republican legislature to aid Hiram Johnson. The republican party is not seeking to destroy corporate interests, but to keep them out of politics. Progressives have become a dominant influence in the republican party.

The meeting closed with a few remarks by Ellis C. Johnson, nominee for justice of the peace for first township.

The next republican meeting in the first township will be held at Knowles Hall, Hillcrest, next Wednesday evening.

TWO WORKMEN SERIOUSLY INJURED

While at work at the Doak sheet metal works in this city yesterday, Robert Roy and a man named Banes were seriously injured by a steel girder that fell from its position in a new factory building that is being added to the plant. Roy had both arms broken besides receiving several bruises. Banes received a bad cut in the face and several wounds. Dr. Plymire was called and attended to the men's injuries. He operated upon Roy this morning and wired the bones of the arms. The men were structural steel workers employed by Dyer Bros of San Francisco.

KNIGHTS OF THE ROYAL ARCH

A convention of the Royal Arch of San Mateo county was held in lodge hall, Metropolitan building, Wednesday afternoon. Delegates from all parts of the county were present.

Worthy Commander Chris Stader presided. Louis Braut was at the secretary's desk.

Several matters of interest to the organization were disposed of.

R. E. Setter of this city was elected treasurer.

The next meeting place will be at Colma, on November 4th next.

A vote of thanks was extended to The Enterprise for courtesies extended.

SUPREME JUSTICE HENRY A. MELVIN

Supreme Court Justice Henry A. Melvin was a visitor to this city last Saturday afternoon. He is a republican nominee for associate justice of the California supreme court. He formed some acquaintances while here. Judge Melvin is a very affable gentleman, and states that he finds his prospects very good for election. He has been on the supreme bench two years. He has insisted on making a dignified, conservative canvass for election in strict keeping with the dignity of the high office he seeks.

Dowdall; financial secretary, Charles H. Fisenhutt; recording secretary, R. B. Hutchinson; treasurer, L. Eisenbeis; sergeant-at-arms, K. C. Gardner. Married—In Berkeley, September 24th, E. J. Sullivan of this city and Miss Frances M. Curran of Omaha, Nebraska. The ceremony was solemnized at St. Columba's Church by Rev. Father Butler. The young couple were accompanied to the church by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brown, formerly residents of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan have taken apartments at the Money flats on Grand avenue, where they will be at home to their friends.

Died—In San Francisco, October 5, Katherine Murphy, late of this city, beloved cousin of H. McCaffrey, a native of County Fermanagh, Ireland, aged 75 years. The funeral took place yesterday from St. Paul's Church, San Francisco, where a requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of her soul. Miss Murphy resided in this city for several years, but becoming quite feeble by reason of age, she felt the need of some one to care for her, and deeding her property to her cousin, Hugh McCaffrey, removed to San Francisco and was there tenderly cared for to the day of her death.

Our fall stock of kimono, vesture and tennis flannels is now on hand at Schneiders.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Spring Valley Water Company Wishes
Delay in Lowering Water Main—
City Officials Present Reports

The city board of trustees met in regular session at the city hall last Monday night. Trustees McSweeney, Cunningham and Healy were present, and Trustees Hickey and McGovern were absent.

A communication was received from W. B. Lawrence, superintendent of the Spring Valley water company for San Mateo county, stating that the request of the board to lower the company's water main on San Bruno road had been received, and in reply asked that the matter be delayed, as it was too late in the season to start the work. Mr. Lawrence suggested that the grade of San Bruno road be left as it is, and the main would not have to be lowered.

Upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee Healy, Clerk Smith was instructed to communicate with the company and notify it that the work of improving San Bruno road had started, and that it was necessary that the main be lowered immediately.

A report was received from City Engineer Waggoner giving the approximate cost of macadamizing Mission road within the city limits.

Upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee Healy, the report was accepted and placed on file.

The matter of widening and improving the "brick yard road," in the northern part of the city, was discussed fully and referred to the street committee to consult with

W. J. Martin, agent of the local land company, in reference to the matter, and report at the next meeting of the board.

A bid from George Casey to lay curbs and sidewalks on Cypress avenue was presented. Prices for doing the work were, 38 cents per linear foot for curbs, and 15 3/4 cents per square foot for the sidewalks.

The granting of the contract was laid over to an adjourned meeting, which was held Tuesday morning, when the bid was considered and again laid over for future action.

Several claims against the city were read and referred to the finance committee.

Clerk Smith presented his monthly financial report for September, as follows:

Balance cash on hand September 1st, $80.09. Receipts—Liquor licenses, $10; dog licenses, $2; contractors, on account, advertising, $66.80. Total, $158.89. Expenditures, $76.50. Balance cash on hand October 1st, $82.39.

The treasurer's and city marshal's reports were the same as the above.

Upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee Healy, Clerk Smith was allowed $10 per month for extra work.

Clerk Smith reported he had completed the assessment rolls for the city. The assessable valuations amount to $1,363,139 which will net the city, with a 50 cents tax rate, $6,815.69.

NEW ORLEANS IS GREATLY WORRIED

Unsatisfactory Census Returns Not Least of Its Troubles

New Orleans' fear that the census returns, which give that city a population of 339,075, will have an unfavorable effect on its prospects of securing the Panama exposition may not be entirely without reason, but, in the opinion of the Portland Oregonian, the slow growth of the Southern city will not be the greatest handicap to the realization of its ambition to win the exposition fight. The Oregonian says: "It is not at all clear why the difference between what New Orleans expected and what she received in the way of Government census figures should materially affect the status of the exposition. New Orleans has other and more weighty factors to contend with in this contest for the exposition honors. So far as the matter has progressed, it would seem that the Southern city could not be assured of more than one-half the amount of financial support that is already guaranteed the San Francisco exposition. On the Pacific Coast every large city within a thousand miles of San Francisco is working harmoniously with the California metropolis to secure the celebration of the big event on this Coast.

"New Orleans may have some outside support, but it does not approach in volume that which is accorded San Francisco. The amount of money pledged for the San Francisco exposition is so great that it would be unreasonable to expect the Government to add enough to the New Orleans fund to make the Louisiana affair approximate in importance the one which will be held on this Coast. With California holding a celebration which in every respect would outshine the one held in New Orleans, it would be idle to presume that the Government would withhold its sanction and support from the greater exposition in favor of the smaller one. The New Orleans Picayune takes Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane to task for advising the Californians to proceed with their big show irrespective of what Congress may do and seems to think that if the Government withholds its financial support from the enterprise it will also withhold its official sanction. This is hardly probable.

"The exposition at San Francisco will be held in honor of the greatest industrial and commercial project that the world has ever undertaken. It will have back of it the credit and integrity of the State and the indorsement of the entire region west of the Rocky Mountains. An enterprise of such a colossal nature favored by so large a number of people cannot well be ignored by the Government. The magnitude of the affair made possible by the generous support given it will compel Government recognition. The Panama Canal Exposition should be held at San Francisco because no other port that is in any manner eligible for the honor can muster anywhere near the support that will be given the affair if it is held on the Pacific Coast. If the Government should discriminate and lend support to a smaller affair at New Orleans, the Western exposition would still prove a more attractive project for both American and foreigners."

People's Interests Guarded.

It is now up to the people of California on November 8th to decide whether the constitutional amendments, authorized by the State Legislature last week, permitting the State to tax herself for $5,000,000 and San Francisco to tax herself $5,000,000 more, shall be passed. The failure to pass these amendments would in all probability mean the giving up of the great project to hold the Panama-Pacific world's fair in San Francisco in 1915, and letting the honor go to our rival, New Orleans. * * *

The Legislature has well guarded the people in the matter of the time and terms on which the $5,000,000, if voted, shall be taken from the treasury. If San Francisco, for instance, does not vote her bonds, or make good her $7,500,000 subscriptions, no money will ever leave the State treasury for exposition purposes. The State Commission to be appointed to take charge of the proposed $5,000,000 State exposition fund will protect the people in this matter.

California cannot afford to let it go out to the world that she has failed in such an important undertaking. * * * The fair will boost California, and this section of the State, naturally, will be the most benefited.—Auburn Republican.

Must Win the Fight.

There is no division of sentiment in California on one thing, viz.: The place of holding the 1915 Exposition in celebration of opening the Panama Canal. From San Diego to Siskiyou the cry is San Francisco. San Francisco's only opponent is New Orleans. But New Orleans is no weak sister. She has the Mississippi Valley States pulling for her, and the Pacific Coast States must put up a strong fight to win. With San Francisco's offer of financial assistance properly placed before the Legislature in extra session, a proposition to bond the State for $5,000,000 will go to and will be endorsed by the people in November. The fight up to this point so gallantly made for this exposition must not be lost.—Napa Register.

A Lively Contest.

San Francisco and New Orleans are engaged in a lively contest for the proposed Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915. The California Legislature was convened in special session to authorize $10,000,000 for the enterprise. The citizens of San Francisco have raised $7,500,000 on the side, giving them a total of $17,500,000 to bid, with more in sight if necessary. New Orleans has up to date secured pledges for but $7,850,000 to finance the exposition. Both cities are putting up a good fight and it demonstrates the remarkable civic spirit of both. May the best man win. — Pittsburg Post.

In acting promptly and as a unit the citizens of San Francisco and the people of California show the energy and spirit which would naturally entitle them to the award of an exposition of progress such as that of 1915 promises to be.—Spokesman-Review.

No Denying San Francisco.

San Francisco has gone after the proposed Panama exposition with customary extravagance. The Legislature has authorized a special State tax to raise $5,000,000 for the purpose and a special bond issue in San Francisco to raise another $5,000,000. Private subscriptions amount to $7,500,000. There can be no denying a city which wants an exposition so badly as that.—Buffalo Express.

Gloom in New Orleans.

It is said that New Orleans is gloomy over the census figures, as these may tend to injure her chances for the Panama exposition. She need not worry so much over the census returns as over San Francisco's postcard campaign, which is to be launched in a few days.—San Jose Times.

Full Text Resolutions Adopted at Santa Barbara

The full text of the resolutions adopted by the Southern California Editorial Association at its recent notable conference in Santa Barbara in support of the proposition to raise $5,000,000 by a State tax for the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915 is as follows:

Whereas, By virtue of an act of the Legislature of California in extraordinary session assembled, the people of California will be enabled at the general election in November next to vote upon the proposition of levying a special tax on the assessed property valuation of the State to the amount of $5,000,000 in and for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition to be held in San Francisco in the year 1915, and

Whereas, We, the representatives of the press of Southern California, in conference assembled, having deliberated together and having heard statements and arguments from representatives of the cities of San Francisco and San Diego, and having received satisfactory assurances that the safest, highest and best financial, industrial and moral conditions will control the conduct of the exposition, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the representatives of the press of Southern California, unqualifiedly endorse the proposition and will give it our heartiest support, and be it further

Resolved, That we request our brethren of the press throughout all California, the Pacific Coast and the United States to co-operate with us in giving this matter the widest publicity.

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

With the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, now rapidly being constructed, South San Francisco will have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Baden Brick Company, Pacific Jupiter Steel Company, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, and other enterprises, all of which are in full operation to-day. The American Smelting and Refining Company has purchased over 300 acres of land in South San Francisco for the purpose of erecting a great plant, which they estimate will cost upwards of $5,000,000. The Doak Sheet Steel Company has purchased a large tract of land and has already commenced the construction of a large rolling mill. Other factories have recently made purchases, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

"INSURGENTS"

A few years hence and we shall find ourselves wondering why the attitude of the progressive section of the republican party excited such intense bitterness. There is nothing immoral in insurgency such as that of a Dolliver or a Fowler, although to judge by the N. Y. Sun and other worshippers of the vested interests, some wrong has been inflicted when one section of a party grows strong enough to enforce its views upon the rest.

"This is the normal working of party government, and in no other self-governed country in the world would the insurgent be abused like a pick-pocket, irrespective of whether the changes he desired were wise or not. Insurgency obtains in any democratic condition, and the name merely begs the question. We are a nation of insurgents, and if we are to continue to hand on the traditions of the embattled farmers of Lexington, those sensible people will believe that the evidence of national virility afforded thereby is well worth the sacrifice of Mr. Cannon's much-loved job, or even of the services of a number of politicians who must pass into private life.

"Our whole national life is insurgent. There is an insurgent element which keeps Wall street clean. Some insurgents terrified the 'regulars' and 'stand-patters' of 1905 by an attack upon financial methods of a kind not easy to characterize politely. That insurgency changed the government of Wall street. Out of its consequences there arose a party conservative but progressive, independent but loyal, which has been able in the past five years to shape the policy of the financial center to the great advantage of the whole country.

"We are all of us a great deal too scared of names, most of which mean rather less than nothing. Anybody who wants to take the hand of privilege out of the public pocket is called an 'agitator,' and told that he is undermining the conditions of business. The sympathies of this newspaper are essentially conservative, but there are certain phases of 'business' which it would gladly see undermined with a stick of moral dynamite. We would even undergo the terrible peril of being called an insurgent therefore.

"What is wanted and needed is the most direct expression of public opinion, if the popular will is to prevail. If insurgency will test the old shibboleth, and cast new light upon new problems, we, for our part, are humbly grateful. The moral gain even before the election, is beyond price, and the interruption of a certain kind of 'business' seems to us to be a trifle to pay for such an advantage."

This editorial appeared on Tuesday, September 20th, in the daily Wall Street Journal, which is without a rival as the leading financial paper in America. It represents not the views of the predatory buccaneers on the outskirts of wealth, intent on corrupt privileges, but the sound convictions of conservative bankers.—Collier's National Weekly.

Republican insurgency is nothing more nor less than part of a world-wide movement for freer and better government among men. A spirit of interest has been everywhere prevalent. In Portugal it has upset the monarchy, in this country it has upset the nominating convention, which was our king.

This movement is really conservative. It is destructive only of the evil that has been undermining the very foundations of our Republic.

"What is without doubt the most unique union ever organized was formed here yesterday when all of the county candidates on both republican and democratic tickets entered into a compact not to make any donations to individuals, charitable organizations and other 'holdups' practiced in political campaigns," says a Stockton dispatch. "The candidates say they are forced to buy tickets, make contributions, give alleged loans, and are otherwise blackmailed to such an extent that they cannot keep within the bounds of the money they are allowed to spend by law. By organizing a protective union they also will not pay for music, meetings, furnish any refreshments, and at least ten meetings throughout the county will be eliminated by both parties. This move has caused much mourning among the hangers-on in each ward and around headquarters."

From remarks dropped here and there since the primary contest by candidates the inference is that the political holdup game is not unknown in certain places in this county. We take pleasure in saying that this town has been clean in this regard.

It is simply blackmail, and the man who is guilty of it is meaner and lower than the man who goes on the road with a mask over his face and demands your money at the point of a pistol.

The community that tolerates this kind of political robbery is utterly discredited and disgraced, and the men who practice it are simply infamous and totally unfit to live among decent people."

The San Francisco Examiner has taken up the $18,000,000 state highway scheme, and is ventilating it. According to the Examiner, a committee of the Commonwealth Club, that has been studying the act for several months, reported to the club "with such overwhelming reasons against it that a repeated call from the presiding officer for a defense of the act failed to bring a single champion to his feet." The act is vague, loose and objectionable in every way. It is centralization gone mad. It is a relief to see the press of the metropolis taking the matter up. It is to be hoped that all the big dailies will give the scheme a ventilation.

TIMES BUILDING A TOTAL WRECK

Detectives Following Clews to Dynamite Shipment

Under the stimulus of proffered rewards aggregating $300,000, hundreds of men, policemen and private citizens in Los Angeles and in all Coast cities are searching for clews that may lead to the arrest of the band of conspirators who are held responsible for the blowing up of the Times building last Saturday and the attempted destruction of the homes of General Harrison Gray Otis and F. J. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Police and civil officials believe that there were at least three men concerned in the outrage which cost the lives of more than a score of Times employes, and the city has placed a price of $10,000 upon the head of each. The county voted an additional reward of $5000 for every man captured and convicted, and on top of all this the members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association decided to offer a reward of $50,000. Twenty-five thousand of this amount already has been subscribed. The rest will be contributed later, it is said.

Detectives at Work.

William J. Burns, acting in the interest of the city of Los Angeles, and Earl Rogers, who has been placed in charge of the work of investigating the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times, visited Giant Monday afternoon and made a thorough investigation of the purchase of 500 pounds of dynamite there by three men. That the three men who purchased the high explosive at the Giant Powder Company's works are part of the gang that conspired to destroy the Times plant is the belief of both Detective Burns and of Earl Rogers.

Clews in Los Angeles.

The veil of secrecy maintained by Chief of Police Galloway of the city of Los Angeles and all his subordinates since the explosion which wrecked the Times plant last Saturday became thicker and more impenetrable when a report came in that the trail of the dynamite conspirators had been struck in that city.

"I regard the second clew quite as important as that which is engaging the attention of the detectives in San Francisco."

This was all that half an hour of interrogation could elicit from the Chief. He admitted later that he had but two clews worthy of attention, the one discovered there and that in San Francisco.

FOREIGN NEWS OF INTEREST

The regulations adopted for the government of Korea have been gazetted. They provide for a Governor-General, invested with authority to make ordinances, subject to the approval of the Emperor of Japan. A Premier and a Privy Councilor to administer affairs will be appointed. The Governor-General will be Lieutenant-General Viscount Terauchi, heretofore the Resident General of Korea, and the deputy Resident General, Isaburo Yamagata, will be the president of the Privy Council. The regulations are lengthy and detailed, but will not change the general situation.

Great irritation has been caused by the latest interference of the Russians in Finnish affairs—the absolute prohibition of the importation of firearms and ammunition into Finland. Only by special permits from the Governor-General may any traffic in rifles and revolvers now be carried on, though that should be a matter absolutely within the scope of the Finnish constitution.

PRINCE TSAI SUUN ESCAPES ASSASSIN

California Chinese in Custody Makes Confession

An attempt to assassinate Prince Tsai Suun, head of the Imperial Chinese Naval Commission, the United States, as he left his special train at the Oakland mole on Thursday, was frustrated by the quick wit and vigilance of Secret Service Agent Harry M. Moffitt and Detective Sergeant George McMahon, who arrested George Fong, a native-born Chinese and member of the Young China party, in the act of drawing off his glove to pull a loaded revolver from his pocket.

Fong was among the large crowd which lined the station platform to greet the Prince, and but for the fact that the train failed to stop at the usual place in the train shed he would probably have been successful in his purpose.

Moffitt had been previously warned that an attempt might be made on the life of the distinguished visitor and was on the lookout, Fong having been pointed out to him as a leading member of the Young China party in San Francisco and a suspicious character. As the huge engine passed the spot where it would usually stop, Fong ran with the crowd in an effort to be on the ground when the Prince landed, and while feverishly pulling off his gloves so as to have free action was seized by Moffitt and McMahon and hustled on a ferry-boat, while the Prince and his party were escorted to the naval tug Unadilla, totally ignorant of any untoward happening. In fact, the arrest was made so quietly that no one in the large crowd, either with the Prince or among the large number of persons who were present, was aware of it.

Admits His Purpose.

When the prisoner was searched on the ferry-boat, a 38-caliber revolver with five cartridges in the chambers and a bunch of keys were all that was found. Fong made no secret of his intentions when questioned by Moffitt, and declared that he intended to rid his country of one of its enemies. Further than this he would say nothing until after he had been closeted with the Secret Service operative for an hour in the latter's office.

After a great deal of persuasion and questioning on the part of Moffitt, Fong made a complete statement of his intentions, declaring that as a member of the Young China party he considered it his duty to kill the Prince and assist in the progress of the great movement to free China of the rule of Manchus. He declared that he hesitated to fire the shot on account of the large number of Americans who were in the way and might be hit, that he did not want to injure anybody but the Prince, and attributed the failure of his scheme to this cause alone.

GENERAL NEWS HAPPENINGS

Reports from the East confirming the announcement of the sale of the steamers Harvard and Yale for service on the Pacific Coast have been received, and it is rumored that the purchasers are the former owners of the Alaska Steamship Company. According to statistics compiled by the Department of Agriculture, Oregon leads the United States this year in apple production. The report shows that in September Oregon had 93 per cent of a full crop, while Washington, the nearest competitor, had 90 per cent of a full crop. The report shows that in the whole country there is less than half a crop this season, the percentage being 46.8.

President Taft has pardoned Edward A. Boyle, John R. Coyle, Patrick J. Hennessy and Thomas Kehoe, four sugar weighers, who are serving sentences for connection with the customs frauds at New York. The President less than a month ago refused to pardon the men. Henry L. Stimson, special attorney for the Government in charge of the customs prosecution, later made representations to the President that the four convicted men had given him valuable information which he used in the trials of Gerbrach and Heike. The President reconsidered the case and pardoned the four men on Stimson's recommendations.

KING DETHRONED IN PORTUGAL REVOLT

Army and Navy Join in Revolt for a Republic

King Manuel of Portugal is now under British protection. The Portuguese royal yacht Amelie, having on board the King, the Queen Mother, the Dowager Queen and the Duke of Oporto, entered the harbor of Gibraltar at 11 o'clock Thursday evening. Shortly after the King and the Queen Mother came ashore and drove to the summer residence of the Governor, Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, at Europa Point.

The republic of Portugal was proclaimed at Oporto and Estremoz. One of the new Ministers in the provincial government is touring the country, urging the people to remain quiet. Only troops on their way to join the revolutionists are allowed to enter Lisbon.

Official advices say the republic has been proclaimed at Selva, Braga and Coimbra, Portugal, and the indications are that the struggle is reaching an end. The revolutionists have triumphed and the Republican government is re-establishing order.

Passengers arriving at Bordeaux, France, from Madrid report heavy reinforcements of gendarmes being rushed into Northern Spain, and that the gendarme escort of trains has been doubled.

While the city of Lisbon is in the hands of the revolutionists and a republic has been proclaimed, with Theophile Braga as Provisional President, there are many thousands in and around the capital who are loyal to the monarchy.

The monarchists include a portion of the Lisbon troops and troops massed in entrenched camps about the city. Thus far, these have refused to ally themselves with the revolutionists, and the provisional government is taking steps to enforce allegiance.

The people of Lisbon are ignorant of events in the provinces and it is not known whether the movement is broad enough to sweep the country. Nevertheless, the Republicans are proceeding as though the transformation of the monarchy into a republic was accomplished for all time.

Artillery Thunders in Lisbon.

The Government troops took up a position in the center of the town, about two miles from the revolutionists, where heavy guns and Maxims were placed to oppose the revolutionists. Meanwhile the insurgent cruiser Adamstor steamed up in front of Lisbon, ready for a bombardment, while the cruiser Rafael proceeded down the river, taking her station opposite the seamen's barracks, the men of which had joined the revolt. The cannonading began and the whole town trembled to its foundations.

A regiment of municipal cavalry made a brilliant charge in an endeavor to take the insurgent encampment near the railway, but was met with a terrific fire from the artillery. This regiment was almost completely annihilated, only three men escaping. Shells Drive King From the Palace.

The revolutionists showed extraordinary courage and for two days and nights sustained an attack on all sides by superior forces. On Tuesday the Adamstor shelled the Necessidades Palace and King Manuel and the Queen Mother Amelie were forced to escape to Cascaes, whence they went to Mafra.

The same night the Adamstor and the Rafael shelled the center of the town, doing much execution on the monarchist forces, and finally the latter surrendered. The republic was proclaimed in the afternoon and the Republican flag was hoisted on the public buildings.

No Resistance Expected in Provinces.

The provisional government has issued a communication to the powers notifying them of the proclamation of the republic. No serious obstructions to the new regime are expected from the provinces. The Government has already appointed civil governors for the different provinces.

DR. COOK IN LONDON

Declares That He Will Yet Prove He Reached the Pole.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook has been found in London, and the New York World will print an extended interview attributed to him, obtained at the British capital. He is reported saying that he will yet prove that he discovered the North Pole, and hopes to return to New York shortly.

In London, according to the interview, he occupied a seat in Albert Hall last spring and heard Commander Peary lecture before the Royal Geographical Society.

"I stood twenty yards from Peary at the time," says the interview, "and none recognized me."

The doctor has made his headquarters in the English capital since last May, taking occasional jaunts to the Continent. Most of the time he has had his wife for companion. His children are in European schools.

CHINESE REVOLT DENIED

The American Legation has no knowledge for the basis of the alarming reports from Washington indicating a change of the general situation in China. There are many malcontents and much anti-dynastic feeling as usual, but this sentiment is not organized and has no leaders, unless they are acting in remarkable secrecy. The Imperial Senate will be opened by the Prince Regent. This historic event, the forerunner of a general Parliament, will be inaugurated without ceremony.

HE WHO WAITS.

Wooded and Won His Bride as a Poor Young Man.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

"Yes," said Fred Livingston as he skillfully threaded the maze of tables in the hotel dining room and led his mother and cousin to desirable places in a cool corner, "I rather pride myself on having found rooms for you here in the Crag House. They claimed they were filled to the brim, but I jingled my purse, the eagle screamed, and they passed the trick. How do you like it, Stella?"

The girl, half smiling at her cousin's rattling talk, was idly watching the gay scene of which she was a part.

"It's lovely, isn't it, Aunt Ju?" murmured the girl in a low tone that she might not interrupt Fred, who was ordering the meal. "I wonder if we will meet any acquaintances here."

Mrs. Livingston patted her stiffly arranged white puffs, pushed in a loose hairpin and twinkled her earrings with a slight toss of her head. "I trust we shall not meet any undesirable acquaintances," she said significantly.

Stella Hewitt flushed rosily, and her pretty teeth closed on her red lip. "To

"WHO WERE YOU SMILING AT, STELLA?" borrow Fred's smile, I suppose desirability is gauged by the scream of the eagle on the dollar."

"Vulgarity is not wit," returned her aunt tartly.

Fred turned a rubicund, good natured countenance toward them.

"Wrangling again?" he asked cheerfully. "What about now?"

Mrs. Livingston stared coldly at her son, and Stella merely acknowledged his question with a contemptuous little smile.

"Did you notice the chap that took our order?" asked Mr. Livingston, no whit abashed by their coolness.

"You mean the waiter?" Mrs. Livingston's strongly marked brows were elevated.

"Yes, the waiter. He's in my class at college. Don't get excited, mother. Lots of those chaps work their way through in this sort of way. They wait on table at these summer hotels and make a pretty penny."

"What is his name?" demanded Mrs. Livingston.

"Schneider," returned Fred nonchalantly—"a mighty nice little Dutchman too."

"Was that waiter at the Pines in Bellair, the one who presumed to speak to Stella on the street one day—was he a college student?" This time Mrs. Livingston's voice was vibrant with eagerness.

Stella's color faded, leaving her face singularly white and strained. "Is it necessary to bring me into the discussion, Aunt Ju?" she asked disdainfully.

Fred looked uncomfortable. "You mean Forrest, Jim Forrest, I suppose. Oh, yes, he's a senior now. Good fellow too."

"I should think he might find a more dignified method of obtaining an education," sniffed Mrs. Livingston.

"Didn't uncle keep a chophouse?" asked Stella, with sudden clearness of tone.

"Hush!" Mrs. Livingston's face crimsoned angrily. "How dare you, Stella!"

"I'm sure he told me that once he kept a chophouse and an oyster parlor. He said he waited on the customers himself," persisted Stella wickedly.

Just then the diminutive Mr. Schneider arrived with the dinner, which he served most deftly and with an element of respect that must have been divided between the loveliness of the young woman he served and the recollection of the Livingston dollars as represented by young Fred, his classmate.

The conversation shifted to less dangerous ground, and the meal passed pleasantly. Fred strove to make himself agreeable to his indifferent cousin, while his mother aided with infinite tact to smooth the girl's ruffled composure.

Their stay at another mountain resort had been rather disastrous from Fred's point of view. Their first meal at the Pines had been marked by an accident. A candle had fallen over, and the flame had leaped to Stella's delicate lace sleeve and would have speedily enveloped her filmy gown had not the tall waiter who, unnoticed, had served them stripped off his coat and wrapped it about the girl, extinguishing the fire.

He had scorned Fred's generously proffered reward, received with urbanity Mrs. Livingston's patronizing commendation and thrilled at the gratitude in Stella's dark eyes. He had pretended not to see the soft little hand she graciously extended and, slipping on his coat, had rearranged the table, served the dessert and sent the hotel physician to see them.

The week that followed was a strange one for Stella Hewitt. Proud and high spirited, resenting the love-making of her cousin, abetted by his mother, who was Stella's guardian as well as aunt, the girl found herself deeply interested in the individuality of the man who waited on the table. He had never presumed by so much as a glance upon the incident in the dining room, and Stella liked him the better for it. One day she had met him on one of the mountain paths, and she had stopped and thanked him prettily for the service.

"I'm going to let you thank me some other time," he had said gravely.

Just at that moment Fred had appeared, and he had uttered some sharp words that divulged the fact that he knew who the waiter was.

The next day the waiter disappeared, and two days afterward Mrs. Livingston found it convenient to move on to another resort. Stella understood and smiled a bitter little smile.

Now she felt a little throb of exultation that her instinct had not been wrong. She had recognized in the man who had saved her life some claim to distinction. She admired him for his pluck and perseverance. She felt that he was more to be respected than Fred, who lazily accepted what the gods (and his industrious father) had provided and was without ambition of any sort, if one excepted his desire to wed Stella.

Dessert was served, and Stella, playing idly with her spoon, looked across the large room and saw Jim Forrest looming large in the distance, bearing a tray carefully poised on one palm. Their eyes met across the intervening space, and Stella smiled. Forrest did not return the greeting.

"Who were you smiling at, Stella?" demanded Fred hastily.

She did not reply.

Mrs. Livingston had seen, however, and so it was the very next day they gave up the rooms Fred had engaged and went back to town where there would be no doubt as to who would serve the soup and where there were no dangerous candelabra on the table.

September came, and Fred went back to college, a rejected suitor. Stella was most unhappy with her aunt, who could not conceal the bitter disappointment she suffered in her son's failure to win Stella.

The girl was very gentle with the older woman, who chided her with ingratitude and coldness. At last she sent Stella away for a long visit to another relative in the west, while she turned her thoughts to other matters and tried to forget the failure of her cherished plans.

In March Fred suddenly married a pretty girl—the sister of one of his classmates—and his college career came to an abrupt close.

One night at dinner a telegram was brought to Mrs. Livingston. She read it and uttered a startled exclamation.

"Why—Stella is married!" she exclaimed.

"To whom?" asked Fred.

"She doesn't say—merely 'Will be with you during our honeymoon.' Let her explain. Who can it be? She hasn't mentioned any one in her letters."

"Some cowpuncher," suggested Fred a little dreadingly, then with more animation, "I say, mother, you remember that chap, Jim Forrest, who waited on table at Bellair last summer—the one who saved Stella's life?"

"Yes."

"Why, he's turned out to be all sorts of a big gun. Seems his father made him work his way through college—told him he didn't care what he did so long as the labor was honest—and now the old man's dead and Forrest is worth a cool ten million!"

Mrs. Livingston flushed deeply. "It would have made a splendid match for Stella," she said regretfully. "But that's always the way. If she had chosen him it would have turned out he was a beggar."

"You could trust Stella to pick out the right party, only, you see, you scared them both off, mother. I don't believe either one of them thought of love or anything else. He was merely polite, and Stella was grateful to him. If they had been left alone it might have developed into a pretty romance, eh, Florrie?" He grinned across at his pretty little wife.

She nodded wisely. "Poor old Stella," she said condescendingly.

The letter from Stella never came, but Stella came herself, with her husband in tow—none other than big Jim Forrest himself.

"I won her as a poor man," he said proudly to Fred, "first as a waiter, and afterward I met her on the Rose Leaf ranch, in Wyoming, of which I am part owner. As a cowpuncher I made her love me, and I have only told her today that she won't have to count the pennies, and, say, she's disappointed, I do believe!"

But those who looked at Stella's happy face, with its radiant eyes and expression of perfect love and trust in her husband, felt that, whatever disappointment Stella might have as to her husband's fortune, she was quite satisfied with him.

NEWS NOTES FROM BUSTLING SAN BRUNO

be held in San Bruno on Saturday evening, October 29th.

David Dower, with the Southern Pacific Company, had a third operation performed on one of his eyes at the company's hospital in San Francisco yesterday. It is probable he will lose it. The eye was injured in an accident a short time ago.

The Martinelli winery has been receiving several carloads of grapes during the last two weeks, and wine-making it now on in full blast. The winery has been considerably improved by the addition of a cooerage and buildings.

The Spring construction company of Oakland that has been putting in the sewer at Belle Air for the last three months has completed its contract and shipped the ditch digger to Berkeley, where six miles of ditches will be dug for sewer purposes.

Petel Hansen, contractor and builder, is engaged in fitting up the store formerly occupied by Geo Debenedetti on San Mateo Avenue for the Parker Bros of San Francisco, who will conduct a dry goods store. They expect to open in a few days with a full stock of goods.

It is rumored that an independent political club will be organized within a few days. The voters of San Bruno are determined that the candidates shall be treated fairly and the object will be to put the question to the voters so that they will understand all of the secret manipulations now being conceived by a coterie of politicians for ulterior purposes.

The Las Amicus club gave one of its exceptionally fine dances last Saturday evening, at Green's Hall. The hall was tastefully decorated with the colors and emblems of the club. The Harmonie orchestra filled the hall with the strains of the latest dance compositions. These dances are looked upon as being more than the ordinary, as discipline and order are the marked features of comportment insisted on, thus insuring every one attending a pleasant time. J. M. Custer, the "Ned Greenway" of San Bruno, the well-known floor manager, had charge of the dances. Many friends of the club from San Francisco and Peninsula towns were in attendance, as well as the local people.

J. B. ("Pop") Seivers will start next Monday morning at 7 o'clock and run a passenger bus to the packing house in South San Francisco and continue each hour during the day from the local postoffice. At quitting time at the factories, he will again meet workmen and carry them home. There are several San Brunos employed at the various factories in South San Francisco. The charge will be 10 cents each way to and from the factories, and 5 cents each way during the day from town to town. It has been inconvenient heretofore for our people to reach South San Francisco without going to Holy Cross cemetery and consuming much valuable time. This will be obviated and the Seivers bus will run on schedule time and make the trip in 15 minutes. Considerable patronage is already assured and it is hoped the venture will prove a success.

The republican club met at the San Mateo avenue fire house last Thursday evening. The old guard put in a strenuous week begging all kinds of recruits, regardless of party affiliations, to be on hand and capture the meeting, with the result that several Bell supporters, and, strange to say, one avowed socialist, joined the Buckley aggregation. The progressives were led to believe that harmony was again perched on the bough of peace, and therefore were not out in force, and under those circumstances lost by only six votes. The presence of the Bell men may be accounted for on account of the trading a portion of the republican ticket for democratic aspirants. Expense seems to be of small concern to the old guard, while the credit system can be worked, but it is intimated that money from a county nominee will be forthcoming to finance the hall and other incidental expenses. Much time was lost during the meeting studying parliamentary rules, and endeavoring to make them fit the occasion. Joe Can non's rules were the order of the evening. It appears that the republican club has now degenerated into an old horse auction or trading establishment, as nothing is done to forward the interests of the party or its nominees.

DEVELOPMENT BOARD PROGRESS BULLETIN

The following bulletin is prepared by the statistical bureau of the California development board, based on reports from various counties covering almost every section of the state:

Information received fully justifies earlier prognostications and estimates made as to conditions and outlook for the season.

September rains, unusual in the state at the time of the year, did no general damage, as the timely warnings of the weather bureau gave opportunity for protective measures. Beans, figs and grapes were somewhat affected in some localities.

Deciduous fruit shipments have kept up well, and increased facilities for transportation have worked favorably for growers.

Drying and canning have continued active, with a good demand for finished products.

Citrus fruits promise well, and preparations are already being made for handling the large crop of next season (1910-11).

Field vegetables have given satisfactory returns. Sugar beets are yielding well.

Grain crops in many sections were beyond normal storage capacity.

General industrial conditions are good. Oil and mining developments are reasonably active. New industries are being inaugurated, both in San Francisco and throughout the state. Construction, both public and private, in San Francisco continues quite active.

A project is on foot for the acquisition of an extensive body of iron ore land in Riverside county and the establishment of a large steel plant on the southern coast.

Results of the season's experiments with cotton in the Imperial valley; rice, hemp and broom corn, in the Sacramento valley, and tobacco in the San Joaquin valley, promise the addition of these desirable industries on a fairly extensive scale, to those already established in the state.

New tracts of land are being prepared for irrigation and colonization, and the influx of home-seekers promises to be large during the approaching winter season.

PROCEEDINGS OF SUPERVISORS

The county board of Supervisors met in regular session at Redwood City last Monday.

Reports of the county officials were presented, read and ordered placed on file.

Upon motion of Francis, seconded by McEvoy, a resolution was adopted establishing the boundaries of a new lighting district at Menlo Park, the citizens of that place having voted favorably for such a proposition.

A contract was awarded to N. Groluff to lay sidewalks and make repairs in the new court house grounds.

The following bids were received for supplying the courthouse with additional furniture:

H. S. Crocker Company—Wood furniture, $2485; metal furniture, $2635. Total $5120.

Rucker-Fuller Desk Co.—Wood furniture, $1772.

Art-Metal Construction Company—Metal furniture, $1777.

It was found that all of the bidders had included in their estimates articles of furniture that were not included in the specifications. Casey moved and was seconded by the chairman, that all of the bids be rejected and the clerk readvertise for bids. The motion carried.

Private party wants to sell a modern cottage; four large rooms and bath centrally located in South San Francisco. Reasonable terms. Apply to Harry Johnson, 323 Miller avenue, South San Francisco.

For Sale—At San Bruno, the Eagle Roost saloon. For further particulars inquire Otto Berlinger, San Bruno.

If you want to sell anything—a house, a lot, a horse, a cow—or want to rent a house, rooms or flat—advertise in THE ENTERPRISE.
